MAKEEN Gas Equipment announces organisational changes in its German company Flüssiggas-Anlagen GmbH (FAS)

On Friday the 28th of February CEO of FAS, Lutz Jeremias will retire giving way for a new CEO Sebastian Scheuvs. Further, Christian Fredberg has been appointed as leader of the European Gas Equipment division in MAKEEN Energy.

Announces CEO retirement

After almost 50 years of family ownership and dedication, Lutz Jeremias, the CEO of FAS, announced the decision to retire. Jeremias' retirement will take effect on Friday the 28th of February marking the end of his era of remarkable growth and innovation for the company. Under Jeremias' leadership, FAS has seen tremendous success and joined the MAKEEN Energy Group ensuring further growth for the company in 2023. His visionary leadership has been instrumental in positioning FAS as a leader in the LPG/Energy sector, and the contributions will continue to resonate for years to come. Jeremias will remain as an advisor to the company.

New future for Flüssiggas-Anlagen

We are also pleased to announce the appointment of Sebastian Scheuvs as the new CEO. After more than a year of integration, Scheuvs and newly formed management team are ready to enter the next chapter in FAS' history. In addition, to the CEO transition, MAKEEN Energy is also announcing the introduction of an overall Director for MAKEEN Gas Equipment Europe. Christian Fredberg will take on this critical role. Together Scheuvs and Fredberg will focus on optimising our operating model to ensure the availability of the best products and services for our customers and further strengthen our presence in the region.
